J. EDWIN HARTMAN, D.D.
CLASS OF 1896, HEIDELBERG COLLEGE
PASTOR OF REUNION PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
MOUNT PLEASANT, PA.

"I have always been mystified by the apparent popularity of the song. I think the writing of it must have been some sort of accident."

THE AURORA DEDICATES ITS PAGES TO

J. EDWIN HARTMAN and F. A. POWER

A priceless gift was tendered to Heidelberg when J. Edwin Hartman and F. A. Power gave the college its "Heidelberg". Their song has become the core of Heidelberg's tradition, culture, and memories—it has touched the hearts of thousands of students during its half-century of life. Mr. Power, now deceased, composed the score to which the lyrics from the pen of Heidelberg student Hartman were set and thus was erected an undying monument to their names. With sincere gratitude for their work, this volume is dedicated.

The President

Doctor Frederick D. Lemke has served Heidelberg in countless ways since his appointment to the staff in 1933. His work in the English Department, his Deanship, and his Acting Presidency have endeared him to those who know him and rely upon his counsel. During his term as Acting President, he has continued to perform the duties of Dean of the College but the great volume of work falling upon him has not made him less eager to give help to all who ask. His devotion to the cause of knowledge has made him a truly outstanding figure in Heidelberg history.

And Deans of The College

CHARLES M. PRUGH, A.B., Th.B., Th.D.
Dean of Men

After serving as a pastor for several years, and then as a chaplain in the U. S. Army, Doctor Prugh came back to his alma mater in February, 1946 to act as Dean of Men. He has become known for other activities, though, besides finding homes and jobs for the men, and teaching religion courses. Always interested in athletics, he has served as ticket-collector at home basketball games and as scorer at out-of-town games. In 1947 he revived the Chess Club, not in existence for many years and organized a tennis team of which he became voluntary coach. This year he formed the new Tennis Club. Doctor Prugh also found time to act as adviser for SCA and chairman of the chapel committee. Off campus, he has done much temporary supply-preaching for nearby churches, spending what time is left with his family.

Coming in 1946 from Ohio University where she was Assistant Dean of Women, Miss Leslie has become an invaluable personage at Heidelberg. Besides her primary duty of counseling women, she assigns dormitory rooms and dining-hall seatings, and manages to teach freshman composition on the side. She acts as adviser for the Senior Laureate, Intersociety Council, Interdormitory Council, and SCA; and registers all social events on the College Calendar. She is also responsible for freshman orientation. All requests for such things as Visual-Aid machines, town employment, and marriage permits must be secured through her office. When not planning programs, committee meetings, faculty teas, or making extemporaneous speeches, Miss Leslie likes music and bridge.

The Administration

Administration Office

The staff of the Administration Office has a varied agendum for its daily work. They are the custodians of the permanent records of the college, they provide transcripts and grades for the students, and perform the hundreds of tasks necessary to the efficient administration of Heidelberg. Distribution of mail, mimeographing, registration of students, and special duties keep their days filled and provide headaches for all.

VIRGINIA HACKER, MARGIE SINGERMAN, MARY WEINIG, CARL HECK,
JEAN PLATT, EVELYN GRAMMEL, PHYLLIS STOCKWELL

Treasurer's Office

Like any other growing concern, Heidelberg has an administrative staff devoted to disbursing and receiving funds. Ever ready to serve the student body, the Treasurer's Office, under the able guidance of Mr. R. G. Frantz, assisted by Mr. Karl W. Goetz, directs student employment and general campus maintenance. Since distribution of the student budget fee is planned by this force, many student advantages have their source in the Treasurer's Office.

SHIRLEY STRICKMAKER, RUSSELL G. FRANTZ, CAROLYN WARREN,
KARL W. GOETZ, VIRGINIA ECHELBERY

Alumni Office

Few students realize the volume of work which goes through the Alumni Office. Not only does this office, headed by E. R. Butcher, record immediate alumni information but also, equipped with a complete filing system, it keeps a record of future "Heidelbergers." One of its primary duties is the publishing of a bi-monthly bulletin which contains alumni happenings. Through the efforts of Mr. Butcher and his competent staff, Heidelberg College keeps in touch with its alumni.

Class of 1948

GERARD T. MURPHY, Vice President; BERNARD P. IZZO, President; ETHEL MAE BOWMAN, Secretary; WILLIAM G. HIME, Treasurer.

Who can forget the voices of the Senior women caroling out of the December night or their spontaneous laughter as they accepted refreshments from the men of T Dormitory who had stayed up late to await their visit? Who can forget those Seniors who sold popcorn and candy at basketball games during the year in order to expand the resources of their class treasury? Who can forget all the silent conspiracy and mystery surrounding the "Senior Sneak" in which the women of the class slipped from their halls toward a secluded rendezvous to find one of those memories which are so long held by Heidelbergers? Soft music and swaying dancers depict the Senior Prom which the class takes with them as one of their last days at their Alma Mater. Who can forget these Seniors—these friends who have become loved and respected by their fellow students during their college years? Their stamp has been left upon Heidelberg life—a stamp which time shall dim but never erase.

Euglossian Literary Society

Euglossians honored their guests with crested belt buckles at their annual dinner-dance held this year at Plumbrook Country Club with the music of Bob Montgomery . . . "Through the Looking Glass" was the banquet's theme and 110 members and guests dined and danced happily . . . the society welcomed new members to their midst during the Hell Week initiations . . . a "chat 'n chew" in the France Hall society hall was held on March 13 with cards and recorded music as diversions for those attending . . . Palm Sunday morning heralded the yearly Eug Breakfast in the France Hall dining room with the short program featuring a vocal solo by Carol Bode, a piano selection by Dolores Dommer, and a reading by Faythe Vent . . . the Eugs sponsored a closed dance after Easter vacation and members and guests danced the hours away . . . the society presented the Eug Circus as their share in the tri-society "HEP" Week-End . . . the Euglossian Sing-Out Banquet was held at the Mohawk Country Club as a farewell to the senior women and they were presented with gift compacts . . . as a finale to the year's activities, the society was awarded top honors in the Inter-Society Sing held during examination week . . . the direction of Jane Brown steered the Eug choristers into first place with their renditions of "Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel", "Star", and "Old Heidelberg."

Aptonalton Literary Society

Aptonalton Literary Society men got back into the swing of school activities by journeying to Allman's farm for a sportive stag party . . . new wearing apparel of maroon and gray jackets made an early appearance . . . never tiring of Allman's hospitality, members and dates traveled by hay rack to his farm . . . suitable for Otterbein after their losing battle in the homecoming game, a coffin was the Ap's contribution to the parade . . . fall pledges were accepted, welcomed into the society, and given their arrowheads . . . highlighting the second annual Blue Book Ball was the smooth orchestra of Chuck Selby that attempted to soothe the weary minds of test burdened students . . . an informal open house and record dance afforded many people a good opportunity to view the Ap's spacious hall and meet many of the members . . . with blankets strewn over their shoulders and a chicken feather perched on their heads, Ap pledges made whoopee during the traditional Hell Week and were soon happy to forget their Indian experiences . . . the traditional Ap serenade was held in May following a Spring stag for all members at Allman's farm . . . closing the year's activities, the Aptonaltons held their traditional banquet and dance . . . Thus another college year, so studded with many memories of close friendships and happy experiences, was brought to a close.

Excelsior Literary Society

Traditional Ex spirit and enthusiasm presided at the hay ride get-together that inaugurated the year's activities . . . an extra-fancy pool table, the latest accessory to the hall was soon put to use . . . Zartman's gaily decorated green and red dragon float snared first place in the homecoming parade and Holtcamp's oratory on army life rocked Rickly Chapel with laughter at the open house . . . eager members attempting to outdo each other drinking pasteurized chocolate milk high-lighted the stag party in the hall . . . the annual Ex Topper saw tuxedo clad members escorting their best girls to the new gym where gay decorations of an Hawaiian atmosphere and Dave Zoll's orchestra helped to mold a romantic and happy evening . . . Parker Brown's reminiscences of high school life and a double meaning train wreck scene rolled members onto the floor during a meeting . . . the athletic Exes captured the Hoke-Miller Trophy by excelling all in football, basketball, and volleyball intramurals . . . after struggling through pledge week, new members were happy to accept their paddles, drop their bricks, and forget the rigors of Hell Week . . . the traditional dinner-dance was a success and another remembrance of Excelsior life, garnished with spirit and enthusiasm, joined the long list of happy college memories.

Hesperian Literary Society

The lead-off event of the Hesperian year was the October hay ride to which members invited their male guests and the itinerary included a stop for refreshments at the Dale Wilkinson Riding Ranch . . . the society took over the Harding Hotel ball room in Marion for their annual banquet in November at which they honored their male guests with key chains and after-dinner speeches . . . the dancing which followed the dinner sent the women and their escorts dreaming . . . Hess pledge bosses arrayed their charges in original styles of the "new look" during their initiation festivities . . . "Heaven" was the setting for a closed dance which Hesperians presented for the entertainment of their members in the new gymnasium on April 24 with the pledges taking the honored spots . . . the Hesperian Mardi Gras, as part of the Tri-Society Week-End, provided an original source of entertainment for all comers and took an important place in the evening's proceedings . . . the Hesperian seniors were feted at the annual Sing-Out Banquet held at the Shawhan Hotel in May and were awarded locketts as tokens of endearment and remembrance by their sister Hesses . . . the society participated in the Inter-Society Sing in the last days of the year and the group was led by Etta Kuhn in "One World" and "Hallelujah" in addition to their individual rendition of "Old Heidelberg."

Philalethean Literary Society

The Hopple residence was the setting for the yearly Phi Doe which provided a meal and meeting for the enjoyment of the members . . . Phis and guests celebrated Halloween at a barn party on the Hedges-Boyer grounds with cider, doughnuts, and apples . . . the first annual Phi closed dance was held in November in the Commons with a large gold Phi emblem high-lighting the decorations . . . guests of the dance were presented with roses and "I Love You Truly" by the Glee Club . . . the society women worked up an old-time vaudeville routine for the WSSF Variety Show . . . in February, faculty women and professors' wives were guests of the society at the novel Phi Chaw in their society hall with caramels, cokes, and bridge featured . . . the upperclass members racked their brains during Hell Week to concoct fiendish initiation pranks and costumes with which to harangue their neophytes . . . Al Cleveland's Orchestra provided the music for the Phi Banquet held in April at the Harding Hotel in Marion . . . guests of the banquet were presented with leather-cased utility brushes . . . a picnic for members and guests was held in the new gymnasium in May with games as diversion . . . the seniors were ushered out of active membership at the Sing-Out Banquet and were given favors as a parting gift . . . Phis performed a black face routine at the Inter-Society Sing with Alice Becker's arrangements drawing much applause.

Heidelberg Literary Society

Heralding a new school year with customary zest and energy, men of the Heidelberg Literary Society renewed friendships at an early stag party . . . Homecoming activities consisted of an open house in the hall and creation of a float that closely resembled a whale . . . Fall pledges were welcomed into the society and soon sported new keys . . . the first annual Thanksgiving Dance with music by Ernie Duffield was held at the Commons amid many colorful fall decorations and proved to be a huge success . . . afterwards, the NEA men held their traditional serenade for the pleasure of the women . . . Rodocker, Schultz, Klee, and Meyers spread cheer with daily writings and pictures, particularly of "Wanted" McCrea, on the society bulletin board preceding the annual open house which presented the antics of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Heid," portrayed by Bame and Klee . . . new stylish purple and gray coat jackets gave Heids the "new look" . . . after lugging mysterious numbered buckets about the campus during Hell Week, the pledges were accepted and their week of woe slipped into the past but Nolde's wooden leg was not easily forgotten . . . activities of the society came to a close at the annual banquet . . . another year of Heid happenings was finished and new members could look forward to future events and the graduating seniors looked back on many grand memories.

History Club

In the spring of 1927, Professor Martin Walker Smith, head of the History Department, met with a group of advanced history students in Room 206 of College Hall to organize a history club . . . the first club president was Karl Harter, now supervisor of athletics of Barberton schools, and the first vice president was Charles Prugh, now Dean of Men at Heidelberg . . . the object of the group is to create a deeper interest in the fields of history and political science and speakers on these subjects have given very constructive talks on world affairs and current problems . . . guest speakers Coach Harter and Dean Prugh, reminisced on the club's founding when they addressed the group on its twenty-first anniversary banquet held at the Shawhan Hotel on May 12 . . . Professor Smith, in his response, expressed pride and gratitude in the continued existence of the club and the staunch support exhibited by the members.

Spanish Club

Members elected officers at a picnic held behind Williard Hall in September . . . monthly meetings were planned to aid students in learning more about Spanish-speaking countries . . . in December, a Christmas party was held in the Commons with the program planned around a Spanish play about the Nativity . . . there were carols in Spanish and the annual pinata, from which everyone received candies and nuts . . . the formal "Banquete" at the Shawhan Hotel in February welcomed new members into the group . . . President Carl Huntington acted as toastmaster while members presented Spanish songs and dances . . . in April, the annual Pan-American "Fiesta" was held in the new gym . . . the year's activities ended with a picnic in May . . . because of rainy weather, members enjoyed their hamburgers in the old gym instead of the usual picnic ground behind Williard Hall.

Concert Choir

Throughout the year, the Concert Choir under the direction of Mr. Ferris Ohl, traveled 2300 miles across the east and mid-west to present forty concerts in nearly as many cities . . . during the mid-semester vacation, the 64 choristers sang their way through Ohio, Pennsylvania, and New York to give twenty performances which were widely acclaimed by critics of the press . . . "Outside of New York City and Princeton, New Jersey this choral group is probably the leading exponent of the great tradition in choral singing", praised the Erie Dispatch of the performance in that city . . . three other week-end trips were made into Indiana, northern Ohio, and Michigan during the year . . . the Yule season brought two performances of Handel's "The Messiah", one at Willard with student vocalists and the annual presentation of the oratorio at Trinity Church with solos by soprano Gretchen Garnett, contralto Emily Kalter, tenor Franklin Bens, and bass J. Herbert Swanson . . . the choir recorded twelve selections for inclusion in a specially produced album featuring 27 minutes of the choir's music and the new arrangement of "Heidelberg" by Patricia MacDonald . . . the choir joined with the sister group, the College Chorus, to render "The Creation" by Haydn on May 16 in Tiffin with the solos of Richard DuBois, David Ritchie, Cleo DuBois, Lya Cioffi, Bernard Izzo, Andrew Gregerson, and Carol Bode . . . the Madrigal Singers, eight voices for special performance, made several appearances including college and non-college functions, radio broadcasts, and recitals . . . on May 8 a banquet was held at Williard Hall for the entire Concert Choir and faculty members of the music department with dancing after dinner in the Heidelberg Literary Society hall.

College Chorus

The College Chorus, an organization open to all students who love to sing, had weekly practices on Wednesday afternoons . . . Charles Baron was elected president and Shirley Grill secretary . . . the Chorus, directed by Mr. Ferris Ohl, presented a chapel program to the college before the Christmas holidays and sang a variety of numbers to the enjoyment of the audience . . . a few days before the holidays, the Chorus split into groups to sing Christmas carols to shut-ins of the city and later met at the Commons for refreshments . . . On May 16, the College Chorus combined with the College Choir to form the Heidelberg College Oratorio Chorus in the performance of Haydn's "The Creation" at the Washington Street Methodist Church in Tiffin . . . the chorus ended the year with a clearer knowledge of choral singing and the satisfaction of the enjoyment of their music.

Senior Honor Chorus

Six members were tapped into the Senior Laureate last spring . . . Janell Landis was elected president and with Miss Leslie as advisor, these students chosen for scholarship, leadership, and service, began their activities . . . the alumnae banquet for old and new members, held in Miss Leslie's suite, was a happy event . . . doughnuts, cider, and hot dogs were sold in the various dorms . . . proceeds from these sales and from the dance-style show held March 5 go for scholarships to two sophomore women . . . seven initiates were invited to join the Senior Honor Society this year . . . Phi Beta Kappa members of the faculty, the Dean of the College, and the initiates were invited to attend the initiation banquet held in the Home Economics House November 13th . . . Twelve seniors, chosen by a committee of faculty and Student Council representatives were selected to represent Heidelberg in Who's Who this year.

Education Club

The Education Club began its twenty-second year with a picnic in October at Hedges-Boyer Park when Dr. Williams outlined the program for the year . . . the list of officers included Fred Schuld, president; Richard DuBois, vice president; Kathryn Yager, secretary; and Thelma Webb, treasurer, succeeded by Kay Meyer second semester . . . the group admits all junior and senior education majors or minors and had seventy-seven members this year . . . joint meetings are held with Kappa Delta Pi . . . on November 19, Mrs. Neuman, principal of Old Fort School, spoke on "Teaching Conservation in School" . . . the club highlighted its activities with an Educational Conference Saturday, March 13 . . . Noted speakers included John H. Young, President of the Ohio Education Association; Dean Wesley E. Peik, University of Minnesota; Harold J. Bowers and T. Luther Purdom, University of Michigan.

Kappa Delta Pi

Those education students having a high scholastic average, a sincere interest in education and a real desire to teach, find themselves initiated into Heidelberg's Alpha Psi Chapter of Kappa Delta Pi, a National Educational Honor Society . . . this year, nine worthy students were initiated on February 11 at the club's twentieth anniversary banquet . . . President Fred Schuld did an excellent job along with his assistants Jane Brown, vice president; Dick duBois, secretary and Adele Shoub, treasurer . . . in February, Mattie Mae Klingaman and advisor, E. I. F. Williams represented the chapter at the National Convention in Atlantic City . . . on March 13, Alpha Psi collaborated with the Education Club to hold a convocation and luncheon . . . on March 31, H. C. Dent, Education Editor of the London Times spoke to the group and their guests at a banquet held at Trinity Church.

Pi Kappa Delta

Pi Kappa Delta concluded its season with a successful trip to Michigan State, April 8-10 . . . the women's team placed first and Joan Zimmerman placed second in the extemp contest . . . other members participated in discussion, after-dinner speaking, extemp and debate . . . over Easter vacation, four debaters traveled under the guidance of Mr. Thomas to Fredericksburg, Virginia to the Grand National Forensic Tournament . . . following the trip, the group went to Washington, D. C. and saw the city at cherry blossom time . . . for one of the chapel programs, the U. of Michigan honored us with a cross examination style debate . . . after being cross examined by an H. C. woman debater, the debater from Michigan exclaimed, "Never argue with a woman" . . . other trips of the season included Capital, Bowling Green, Kent, Hiram and Adrian . . . the annual initiation banquet was held April 22.

Student Council

The Student Council, guided by Presidents Fred Schuld and Norma Specht, began another year of activity by supervising class elections and the presentation of the Homecoming festivities, including a dance held at the Masonic Temple . . . representative Charles Dispenza attended the NSA Conference at Columbus on behalf of the council . . . the council redesigned the proposed college ring and made arrangements for their sale at the end of the term . . . the members supported the annual Red Cross campaign and sold Booker T. Washington half dollars on the campus for the memorial drive . . . the Freshman King and Queen were elected under the supervision of the hard-working elections committee . . . a bank of booths were purchased by the council for installation in the recreation room . . . the council presented the May Day ceremonies for students and visitors and the May Dance followed in the new gymnasium . . . a steak fry ended the busy year for the Council.

French Club

Under the auspices of Miss Margaret Miller, a new organization was formed the second semester of this year . . . the French Club has as its purpose the creation of interest in France and the French language . . . officers were elected by the advanced French classes, and meetings were held the last Monday in each month . . . programs included speeches on famous Frenchmen, slides of French castles, and chateaus, and plays and skits were presented in French by the members . . . French games and songs were enjoyed at all the meetings and conversation was carried on in French in accordance with a pledge which all the members signed . . . "Le Circle Francais" closed the year with a banquet held at Wheatley's Tea Room in May . . . Anne Christman acted as master of ceremonies while president Patricia MacDonald and Robert Quaintance furnished musical selections.

Classics Club

On October 29 the Classics Club assembled at the residence of advisor Dr. Frank Kramer where they enjoyed a banquet served Roman style followed by the initiation of nineteen new members . . . new officers elected for the year were: Norine Doll, president; Gerald Kummer, vice president; Artha Ahart, secretary-treasurer; Robert Mohr, program chairman; and Don Shoub, reporter . . . the club initiated a drive to send packages to needy Greek families . . . Don Shoub, Mabel Cook, Robert Moser, and Arthur McCrae collaborated in a discussion on "The Atom in Greek science" at a later meeting . . . the members traveled to the Allen Memorial Art Museum at Oberlin in March to attend a lecture by Professor Edward Capps on "The Temple of the Gods; The Parthenon" . . . the traditional Greek Banquet was served to the club at the Gibson Hotel with a variety of Greek foods.

Science Club

The first meeting of the Science Club for this year was held on October 16 under the guidance of advisors Professor Howard E. Menke, Dr. Ira T. Wilson, Dr. George A. Stinchcomb, and Professor Arthur G. McQuate . . . election results gave the club's leadership to President Bill Hime, Vice President Joan Zimmerman, and Executive Committee Members Rita Wessel, Bill Protheroe, and Karl Bednarik . . . the November meeting featured the reading of papers entitled "What is Non-Euclidean Geometry" by Professor Menke; "Water Repellents" by Dr. Stinchcomb, and "The Age Determination of Sedimentary Deposits" by Dr. Wilson following which questions and discussion by members were in order . . . another meeting was highlighted by an astronomy demonstration by Fred Shober and John Kissel and a lecture by Joan Zimmerman on entropy.

Camera Club

The Camera Club is composed of all persons who are interested in the art and science of photography and the membership is not restricted to those enrolled in the college photography courses . . . the members are not required to have a technical knowledge of the subject but are encouraged to learn new techniques . . . illustrated lectures were presented to the club through the School Service Division of the Eastman Kodak Company and provided interesting programs at the club's regular meetings . . . Miss Kathryn Kalbfleisch served as advisor to the Camera Club and Frank Ligas and John Stockwell were elected presidents for first and second semesters respectively . . . the club was permitted to use the facilities of the college darkroom for their activities . . . plans for the production of a color movie about the life on the Heidelberg campus were made for next year.

The Kilikilik

Thirty more editions of the official Heidelberg weekly hit the streets during the year, each issue published along with the sweat and heart breaks of the hard working staff . . . the Kil editorial staff was headed by Editor Don Streibig, Assistant Editor Cecilia Vasu, Society Editor Lorene Kellermeyer, Sports Editor Robert Aldrich, Copy Editor Jane Adsit, and Photographers Bill Allman and Carolyn Hahn . . . Phyllis Close served as business manager, Paul Hoffman as circulation manager, and Rosemary Zechman as exchange editor . . . Editor Streibig conducted a journalism class during both semesters to instruct interested candidates in news techniques . . . during the semester vacation, the Kilikilik staff members contributed their services in the redecoration of the Kil office which consisted of fresh wallpaper, paint, new chairs, and the installation of fluorescent lighting fixtures . . . the staff broke nearly every rule of journalism and reporting in the traditional April Fool's Day edition which poked fun at almost everyone connected with the college . . . for the third consecutive year, the Kilikilik received the All-American rating from the judges of the Associated Collegiate Press Headquarters at the University of Minnesota as one of the seven publications receiving this honor from the 45 entered . . . gold and silver achievement keys were presented to staff members at the Kilikilik picnic in May for journalistic ability, time on the staff, and service . . . On April 24, the Kilikilik was taken over by Co-Editors Jane Adsit and Lorene Kellermeyer with the help of Assistant Editors Herman Ahrens and Robert Aldrich, Society Editor Anne Rathbun, Sports Editor Victor George, Copy Editor James Blaser, Business Manager Joann Travis, and Paul Hoffman and Rosemary Zechman who remain in their former posts on the staffhead.

The Aurora

The 1948 Aurora staff began operations last spring after the staff appointments had been made by Editor Nolan Carson and Business Manager Marilyn Uhlmann . . . spring sports and May Day were captured by the staff photographers for reproduction in the book . . . in the fall, the new dark-room was opened for use by the staff and was fully equipped with all the apparatus essential for the processing of fine photographs . . . October brought the rush to Briehl's Studio and the tormenting task of assembling campus organizations for their photographs . . . the business staff scoured the town to secure the vital advertisements to help finance the Aurora . . . after semesters, the class portraits began to pour in and brought with them the long hours of tedious trimming and mounting . . . finally, near the end of the year, all the engravings were completed and the finishing touches were made to the written copy for the book . . . and once again the book was put to bed for another year.

Band

The Student Prince Marching Band began regular drilling practice early in the fall with Bob Holtom efficiently serving as band president . . . the band played at every football game on the calendar with the exception of the Muskingum game, which, incidentally, was the only defeat suffered during the season . . . colored flares and sparklers at night games initiated a new era in booster band antics . . . Homecoming came and the band feted the visiting alumni at half-time with novel formations . . . the Shawhan Hotel was the site for the annual band banquet which closed the season for the marching band . . . a post-season concert was performed in a special chapel program in which Mr. Vernon Miller was presented as the new band director . . . then came the climax to the year with the arrival of the snappy new uniforms which are to give the band the "new look."

Orchestra

Under the critical baton of Professor Harry R. Behrens, veteran Director of the Conservatory of Music, twenty-five musicians assembled in the Conservatory for weekly rehearsals on Tuesday afternoons . . . the orchestra was headed by President Robert Warren, Vice President Karol Welcelean, and Student Director Luther Tully who aided Professor Behrens in the smooth operation of the group . . . the instrumentalists worked diligently during the year on selected arrangements of music by Anderson, Gershwin, Coward, Herbert, and other composers of classic and modern music . . . on May Day, the strains of "March Pontificale" lofted from the strings, brasses, and woodwinds of the orchestra to provide the traditional march for the procession of senior women and the May Queen across the Commons lawn to the throne platform.

Triad Club

Tau Mu Sigma began the activities of the year with their traditional picnic behind Williard Hall in October . . . the club members operated the football stadium concession at the grid contests of the season with the proceeds from the soft drinks, candy, popcorn, and sandwiches being added to the Triad Scholarship Fund . . . President Bernie Izzo welcomed six new members in the November meeting with the neophytes presenting the program . . . Christmas time brought the Triad Tea on December 13 with selections by the string quartette, Jane Brown at the piano, a vocal solo by Mrs. Cleo DuBois, and violin numbers by Karol Welcelean . . . Lou Tulley was elected to serve as new president with the assistance of Vice President Andrew Gregerson, Secretary Jacqueline Mohr, and Treasurer George Conrad . . . the year ended for the club with the spring banquet served at the Tiffin Manor House on May 30.

Wig and Masque

The big production for this year by the Wig and Masque, Heidelberg's dramatic association, was "You Can't Take It With You," written by Moss Hart and George Kaufman . . . December 13 saw the Junior High School Auditorium full as Robert Bame as the Grandfather, Martin Vanderhof, elaborated on his philosophy of life . . . Mrs. Wendell Q. Halverson of the Heidelberg speech department, directed the play and she can be commended for her work . . . other important roles were carried by Molly Franklin as Penelope, Barbara Bender as Essie, Richard Egli as Paul, Joseph Kuldau as Mr. DePinna, William Protheroe as Boris Kolenkhov, James Todd as Donald, and Janell Landis as Rheba . . . officers for the group included President Molly Franklin, Vice President Faythe Vent, Secretary Irma Oelze, Treasurer Bruce Klee, and Jim Gilliom as stockroom manager . . . Miss Heran, dramatics instructor at Columbian High School, spoke at one of the group's meetings and in March Mr. Byers, of the Tiffin radio studios, talked on "The Possibilities of Radio and Theater as Professions" . . . at the April meeting a preview of the radio play "The Hitchhiker" was given, starring Don Streibig and directed by Bruce Klee . . . "The Hitchhiker" was presented on the following day over the microphones of WTFM.

Alpha Psi Omega

Under the point system adopted by the organization, it is necessary for each member of Alpha Psi Omega to direct a play production some time during the year . . . Jim Howard started off the 1947-48 series by taking over the production of "The Dictator Visits His Mother" starring Rita Rozin and Robert Washka and Faythe Vent's production "Romance of the Willow Pattern" followed . . . preceding the Christmas holidays, the college was entertained by Dickens' "Christmas Carol" under the co-directorship of Babs Bender and Bill Allman . . . second semester found the Little Theater packed for "The Beautiful People" and "Judge Lynch" produced by Don Streibig and Molly Franklin respectively . . . for the success of "Curse You, Jack Dalton" praise goes to Pete Stevens . . . the last play of the year was the commencement production "Twelfth Night" . . . four new members, who earned sufficient points through both backstage and acting work, were taken into Alpha Psi Omega recently . . . the new members include Bruce Klee, Janell Landis, Irma Oelze, and Helen Kimmel . . . it is one of the duties of Alpha Psi members to observe the tryouts for Wig and Masque initiates and to choose those whom they judge most qualified for later performances.

Varsity "H" Association

The lettermen of the college opened the year's activities of the Varsity "H" Association with regular meetings conducted by officers elected for successive six week periods . . . the association presented numeral awards to freshman football players of the previous season as one of their annual functions . . . motion pictures depicting the 1947 Baseball World Series were screened for the enjoyment of the members and friends . . . following the award of letters to athletes at the football-basketball banquet, the new lettermen were introduced into active membership . . . in March, the annual Variety Show occupied the attention of all the members . . . Master of Ceremonies Ed Holtcamp, the tapping feet of Kenny Mast and Rea Ritter, the vocal novelties of Ritter and Quaintance, and the ensemble including Holtom, Menzalora, Huebschmann, Lorah, and company highlighted the evening to the delight of the audience . . . with the proceeds from the well-attended Variety Show, the association sponsored a spring inter-squad football game on Armstrong Field to which they welcomed twenty prospective students . . . following the game, the visitors were guests of the "H" men at a picnic supper held in the new gymnasium during which the athletic season was discussed and re-discussed.

Student Christian Association

The Student Christian Association was off to a good start this year with the leadership of first Semester President Carl Greek, Second Semester President Elinor Brenner, Secretary Mattie Mae Klingaman, Treasurer Charles Eichenberger, Historian Bess Wood, and Area Representative Lorene Kellermeyer . . . the cabinet was constructed of the various committees headed by: Rea Ritter and Ted Lorah, public affairs; Ralph Grear and Ted Garland, publicity; Penny Bowman, membership; Pat Todd and Anne Lieber, social committee; James Gilliom, spiritual emphasis; Norma Specht and Pat Blake, community fellowship; Janell Landis and Elfrieda Auer, freshman activities; Mario Menzalora, chapel committee; Albert Young, deputation; Robert Steinecker and Bob Peeples, world fellowship; and Janet Huenefeld, vocational guidance . . . advising the group were Dr. Prugh, Dean Leslie, and Professor Arthur G. McQuate . . . the SCA made many accomplishments during the year which include the establishment of a Sunday School teacher's pool, regular Sunday evening vesper services, organization of Freshman Week activities, mass meetings and forums in the chapel, an all-college ice skating party with refreshments, and the sponsoring of the college Ping Pong Club and Bridge Club, both of which participated in several tournaments.

Co-operative Food Bar

Born out of the many needs and desires on the part of students and administration members, the brand-new Co-op Bar began its unique career as one of the many student-faculty organizations here in September, 1945 . . . there was a need for an informal lunch bar here and active students began the drive . . . the question of financing arose and as the question became more pressing, the cooperative plan was chosen . . . membership is open to all with each member having his vote . . . savings are refunded to members in proportion to their purchases and interest is permitted on capital . . . sales are for cash at market prices and earnings are devoted to expansion . . . this system provides well the main purpose of giving students ordinary articles of consumption on the campus at lowest possible cost consistent with quality . . . offering educational experience, 250 shareholders have the opportunity to govern the affairs of the Co-op in the legislative body which meets twice a year . . . shares sold for one dollar each bring shareholders an interest of one per cent . . . on the basis of individual patronage, earnings are returned to the shareholders, barring ten per cent of the net proceeds used to maintain an emergency fund and an additional sum to be set aside for maintenance and current improvement.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club began its activities early and in November the members heard Speakers Mrs. L. S. Fought and Miss Zoa Slutz in lectures on the science of home economics . . . the club sponsored a toy-making contest for the benefit of the Salvation Army and sent regular aid boxes to a family in Holland . . . a Christmas party in the Home Economics House honored Ellen Richards, the founder of Home Economics, and the judging of the toy-making contest was followed by group caroling . . . the club made a group tour of the Tiffin Historical Museum in December and reconvened in the Home Economics House to enjoy an informal coke party . . . on April 9 the club took over the new gymnasium and presented "Springtime in Paris," a style show with the decorative Paris street scene serving as a backdrop . . . the club prepared several dinners during the year for various campus organizations including the Alumni Council and the Kappa Delta Pi . . . a banquet was held in May in honor of the senior members and President Charlotte Fager, Vice President Kay Meyer, Secretary Pauline Schoewe, and Treasurer Jan Zellner turned over the reigns of the organization to the new officers installed that evening.

Inter-Society Councils

Both the men's council and the women's council were confronted with many problems during the year which were shared by the literary societies and the representatives discussed and solved them to the satisfaction of the societies . . . each society chose representatives to sit on the Inter-Society Councils with Dean Prugh and Dean Leslie serving as advisors to the groups . . . the women's council met with Miss Leslie every other week while the men met monthly with Dr. Prugh . . . one of the greater achievements of the women during the year was the institution of a combined women's Inter-Society Week-end held in the new gymnasium in February . . . both councils were active in the planning of new pledge week rules and systems which sought to eliminate dissatisfaction by the societies and administration . . . throughout the year, the Inter-Society Councils kept things moving smoothly.

Dormitory Councils

Ways to solve new problems and ways to enforce old rules were hurdles the Dormitory Councils faced during the year . . . the women's council met with the Dean in bi-weekly sessions and planned methods for practical dormitory living . . . President Janell Landis was chosen by a popular vote of all women residents . . . the council provided several Saturday evening platter dances to create additional social activities for the college . . . many hours were spent in setting up a new counselor system for the dormitories and the plan was accepted by the women in a mass chapel meeting . . . the objective of the new system is not only to help freshmen through the rigors of adjustment to college life but also to foster more effective government for all . . . dormitory life has its problems, as well as its advantages—but leave it to the dormitory councils to smooth the road.

Christian Education Study Group

The club started off the year with the formation of a new constitution stating the objectives which were to guide the selection and carrying-out of the activities . . . a dance was held in the fall and the "Joe's Show" in the spring was given for the entertainment of the student body . . . the members packed many boxes with shoes and school supplies for children and students in Europe . . . they sponsored counseling by youth workers who visited the campus and devoted many meetings to the discussion of personal and critical religious problems confronting the students . . . the Group was advised by Miss Esther Grether, instructor of religious education . . . the Christian Education Club, through these varied activities, proved a worthwhile organization for those students interested in religious education and the members welcomed all students who showed interest in the attendance of meetings.

Pre-Ministerial Association

A retreat at Camp Pittenger terminated with an address by Dean Graham of Oberlin Seminary began the year for the Pre-Ministerial Group . . . a communion service was conducted by Professor Halverson and Dean Prugh . . . a field trip to Columbus proved to be an outstanding event for the men . . . the members were privileged to meet with such interesting personalities as Dr. Roy Burkhardt . . . they visited nearby churches and took part in church school and regular worship services . . . a chapel hymn-sing was presented to the student body with introductions given by members . . . the group was counseled by Dr. Alan S. Meck, Dr. Roy Smith, and Dr. Frederick Schroeder . . . a concluding program was held in the Commons lounge with Dr. Wayne O. Kanter, pastor of the English Lutheran Church as guest speaker . . . all these activities provided fellowship for the members and helped to guide them in their chosen profession.

The Football Year

The Heidelberg Student Princes rounded out the 1947 football season with the best record since the undefeated team of 1930, by snaring seven wins and suffering only one loss. Coaches Paul Hoernemann and C. E. Uptegraph greeted 16 lettermen at the beginning of the season, and developed their squad around these men. The opening game against Ashland gave strong hints that a good team was in the making as the Princes swamped the Eagles, 33-0. Scoring in every period, the Tri-Color piled up 327 net yards rushing to Ashland's 22. Devine scored two touchdowns and Gribble, Miletti, and Yackey the others, as Slemmer's golden toe picked up three extra points. The Princes' only defeat of the season came at the hands of a fighting Muskingum team, who won 14-0. Both the Muskies' touchdowns resulted from Heidelberg fumbles. Much optimistic comment was offered concerning Heidelberg's chances had this game been played later in the season. Following this defeat, the Princes charged through the remaining opposition for six straight wins. Homecoming saw a large crowd at Columbian Stadium to witness an exciting win over Otterbein, 14-8. In a hard-fought battle, the Princes struck early when Devine traveled down the side lines for the first score. Baker scored the second touchdown on a line plunge. Heidelberg's next victim, Capital, succumbed 20-0. After Butdorf recovered the opening kick-off, Devine skirted right end for 35 yards, and Baker plunged into the end zone from the five yard stripe. Baker and Devine scored the other two touchdowns. Wittenberg was treated to some fancy blocking as Heidelberg trounced the Tigers, 37-13. Valentine scored two touchdowns, going 67 yards for the first. Devine scored next, after Mick had recovered a fumble. Baker scored the other two touchdowns. Slemmer displayed his kicking prowess as he blasted a 35-yard field goal. The rampaging Princes downed Ohio Northern 20-0 to capture their fifth Conference win. Devine hit pay dirt early, going through right tackle for the TD. Spino's pass to Gribble was successful for a score. In the third quarter Butdorf swept left end for the final HC tally. Heidelberg walloped Assumption 62-0, before a small throng of loyal Heidelbergers braving a cold and rainy night. HC garnered nine touchdowns, six conversions and one safety. Scampering across the goal line once were Beaver, Sanders, and Auble, and crossing it twice were Yackey, Butdorf, and Devine. Further testifying to the great defensive strength of the Princes' forward wall, was the fact that the Assumption team penetrated Heidelberg territory only once. Playing before a large Dad's Day audience, Heidelberg captured its seventh win by defeating a strong Wooster team 9-0 in the final game of the year. Five times during the season the powerful defenses of the Tri-Color held their opponents scoreless. The Scots had previously beaten Muskingum and proved that they were tough by displaying strong defensive strength and a powerful offensive machine. Early in the first quarter, Bissell blocked a punt and Gribble recovered on the Scot's seventeen, but Heidelberg could not score. A few plays later, however, Spino shot a pass to Gribble that brought the pigskin down to the eleven of Wooster. Valentine plunged to the one, where Devine then took the ball and went over the pay stripe. Slemmer missed the conversion but made it up in the third quarter by kicking a field goal. Thus the season closed with Heidelberg snaring seven wins against only one loss. The Princes scored 195 points to 35 for opposing teams. Heidelberg gained third place in the Ohio Conference and had the best defensive record. Devine was named to the first team of the Associated Press All-Ohio and Bissell and Gribble were given honorable mention on the International News Service team. Devine with 54 points was the leading scorer, and was followed by Baker with 36, Slemmer had 25, and Yackey scored 18. The team's great record was chiefly caused by such players as Baker, Wilson, R. Egbert, Spino, Bissell, Devine, Baum, Auble, Sanders, Valentine, McKillip, McElheny, Butdorf, Geib, Raines, Lyle, Slemmer, Grimm, Lorenz, Gribble, R. Steinecker, Miletti, Underhill, Prasher, Bishop, Yackey, Mick, Beaver, Warner, and Strickmaker. Looking forward to next season was even more pleasant after a power-laden freshman squad defeated a varsity-loaded sophomore team by a score of 6-0 in a post-season game.

The Hoop and Heidelberg

An up-and-down basketball season produced twelve wins and ten losses for the Heidelberg Student Princes during the 1947-48 basketball season. Using returning lettermen as a nucleus for the team, Coach Paul Hoerneman frequently changed the line-up during the year, but could never combine a consistent winning combination. The team was handicapped by lack of height, and had periods of hot and cold spurts throughout the season. The Student Princes' first triumph was notched against the Wright Field "Kittyhawks," 52-40. Kenny Mast dumped in 16 points. Because of a recurrent knee injury, Ed Holtcamp dropped from the team. Heidelberg celebrated its first home game with a win over Ohio Northern, 46-35. Foster and Mast netted 11 points each. This game and all other home games were broadcast from the Columbian court over Tiffin's FM station, WTFM. Capital's strong quintet knocked the Princes out of the win column in the closely-fought game, 54-52. Sherman netted 13 points in this contest. Pulling an upset over highly-regarded Kenyon, the Princes beat the Lords, 66-48, with Freshman Chilcote meshing 16 points. A strong Mount Union team soundly whipped the Hilltoppers, 62-39. The Tri-Color next journeyed to Cleveland to whip the Fenn Foxes, 45-33. Foster hit the hoop for 12 points to lead the scoring. The Assumption Purple Raiders from Canada were overpowered, 60-49, as Mast tallied 17 points. The Polar Bears of Ohio Northern were beaten again, 50-42, with Foster, Sherman, and Mast leading the scoring. The Otterbein Cardinals sank the Princes in a close contest, 50-48, despite Mast's season high of 24 points. Kent State's high-flying Golden Flashes shipped the Hilltoppers, 64-40. Welter scored 12 points in this encounter. The entire team helped win number eight, downing the Wright Field team for the second time, 63-35, with Foster meshing 12 points. Kenyon gained revenge for a previous beating, repulsing the Princes in a close game, 63-58. Mast sank 22 points attempting to catch the Lords, but to no avail. Heidelberg's deadly shooting routed Wittenberg for their ninth victory, 73-50, with Yackey chalking up 14 points. Foster's foul shot in the overtime period gave HC a hard-fought win over Ashland, 53-52. Bob Baker, joining the team at the beginning of the second semester, led the scoring with 18 points. Running into tough opposition, Heidelberg dropped three straight games. Capital routed the Princes, 54-46, with Lutterbein, Engle, Bissell, and Mast leading the scoring. Muskingum swamped the team, 95-60, Yackey getting 14 points and Otterbein was victorious, 81-43, holding high-scoring Mast to one point. Heidelberg broke their losing streak by beating the Ashland Eagles again, 64-51. Scoring a major upset, the Princes gave a fine defensive exhibition by routing the powerful Mount Union team, 42-36. Foster and Mast led HC in the scoring department. The Hiram Terriers were Heidelberg's twelfth victim, falling to the tune of 49-44. Bissell, Yackey, and Chilcote poured in the deciding points. Failing in the fourth quarter, the Princes couldn't quite catch up and the strong Kent State squad went ahead to defeat Heidelberg in a close, hard-fought battle, 68-60. Mast helped the Princes' cause by scoring 17 points. Traveling to Canada for the final encounter of the year, the Heidelberg five was whipped by an avenging Assumption team, 50-43. Thus the season closed with a record of 12 wins and 10 losses. Kenny Mast was the team's leading scorer with a season's total of 243 points, for an average of 11 per game. He finished sixteenth in the Ohio Conference for individual scoring. Bill Yackey was elected honorary captain by his teammates. In addition to veteran players Mast and Yackey, others who played leading positions on the team were lettermen Foster, Welter, and Sherman. From the previous year's Jayvees came Grimm, Lorenz, Bill Baker, Singerman, Bissell, and Valentine. Several veterans, all freshmen, contributed greatly to the team. Engle, Chilcote, Lutterbein, and Bob Baker all played stellar ball and will help even more next season. Spezzaferro's freshman team sported a fine record of sixteen wins and only two losses, indicating there will be plenty of competition for next season's starting berths. The freshman team, after losing one game, came back to win the city amateur title.

Baseball

A rainy spring came in 1947 severely handicapping all hopes for a successful season for the Heidelberg baseball team. Thirty-seven candidates reported to Coach Uptegraph only to have nature's torrents and the resulting wet diamonds hinder all efforts to get a starting nine ready for competition. The pre-season information gave Heidelberg's contribution to America's favorite sport a good pitching staff but the loss of Holtcamp and Lucas lowered this a few notches. Rain again struck a blow at the Tri-Color forcing five of the twelve games to be cancelled preventing the opportunity for much needed experience. Lack of practice showed from the start with Findlay winning the first game of the season by a margin of 19-2. Four more defeats in inter-collegiate play followed this, the Hilltoppers losing to Toledo University 10-3, Ashland College 6-4, to Bowling Green State University 10-2, and to Wittenberg College 11-0. The "B" squad, after bowing to Bloomville and the Tiffin Mud Hens, upset the varsity in a hard-fought battle by the score of 4-3. This defeat, plus the able pitching of Frank Bissell who came up from the "B" squad ranks, gave the team its drive for the only victory of the season, an 8-5 triumph over Findlay, removing some of the sting of the previous pounding handed out by the Oilers. The season's finale came with another defeat by the bats of the Toledo Rockets with their seven runs to the Princes' two runs.

Golf

Mother Nature made it difficult for all spring sports last season. Rain, plus the fact that the Mohawk Country Club links were opened late, kept the linksmen from getting that much-needed practice during the entire season and also cancelled several matches. Starting with an eleven match schedule, constantly shifted due to climatic conditions, the team won one in the nine actually played. Going to the south central part of the state where the sun seemed to shine always, the boys met a well-practiced team from Ohio Wesleyan and were defeated 9-3. Following a defeat by Otterbein, the Princes of the links dropped three to the elements, the matches with Findlay, a return with Ohio Wesleyan, and Toledo being cancelled or postponed. The next match, the second scheduled with Findlay was dropped by a score of 12-5. Coming back fast two days later, Heidelberg gained its only victory of the season, a 9-5 win over Ashland. A scheduled return match with Otterbein was rained out. Ken Mast's 76 failed to stop the Findlay foursome in the second match with them, the Oilers winning 8½-5½. Ashland came back to avenge its previous defeat to the tune of 8-4 and the season was closed with Wittenberg winning 9-3. Ken Mast, placing sixth in the Medalist division of the Ohio Conference Golf Tourney at Granville, was the team's outstanding golfer with Jim Hale, Clayton Simpson, and Bill Kuhn playing good golf throughout the schedule.

Women's Recreation Association

Operating under a new constitution, the Women's Athletic Association became the new Women's Recreation Association. Headed by Ethel Bowman and her staff of officers, the WRA started the year with the annual fall picnic. Teams chosen for the full year began an active schedule of basketball, volleyball, and softball tournaments. Honorary teams, picked from the regular teams played some inter-collegiate games, besides the regularly scheduled games between themselves and the faculty women. Play night, sponsored by the WRA, officially opened the new gymnasium to all social functions and gymnasium classes. A certain number of points given for each attendance at scheduled games insured the more active members a sports letter. An annual spring picnic and election of officers for next year wound up an active season of sports for the members of the WRA.

Track

With five meets scheduled for the season, the first complete squad of trackmen since before the war reported to Athletic Director T. R. Turney who acted in the capacity of track coach. Heidelberg's striders of the cinder paths made track the most successful spring sport with three victories in five meets. The spring rains which hampered track workouts and slowed conditioning resulted in the Princes' finishing last in a three-way meet with Oberlin first and Otterbein second to open the season. The second meet was lost to Ohio Wesleyan's powerhouse by a score of 104-22. Eichenberger picked up two firsts, one in the broad jump and one in the 220-yard low hurdles. Wolfe was second in the 880-yard dash, Protheroe second in the 110-yard high hurdles, Schober second in the discus, and Franklin second in the high jump, these accounting for Heidelberg's points. In the third meet, the Hilltoppers gained 74 points to Kenyon's 36 and Ashland's 25 for the first victory. Eichenberger made 20 of the team's points with firsts in the broad jump, 220 low hurdles, 110 high hurdles, and the 100-yard dash. Meeting Lawrence Tech of Detroit and Findlay in another three-way meet, Jere Caswell set a new high jump record for Heidelberg of 6 feet 1 inch, filling in with Eichenberger's 18 points and firsts for Franklin, Schober, Warner, Campbell, and Protheroe to snare 77½ points for the Tri-Color as against 48 for Lawrence and 27½ for the Oilers. Bringing the season to a successful climax, the trackmen ran rings around Wittenberg 84 to 43. Caswall and Eichenberger again led the team with Dick Lutterbein and Irwin tied for first in the pole vault, Warner winning the 880, Campbell winning the mile and Franklin winning the two mile.

Intramurals

The Aps, Heids, and Independents tried desperately to overcome the Exes' athletic superiority during the year's intramural activity and prevent the Hoke-Miller trophy from being permanently retained by the Red and Green. The Exes needed only to win the trophy this third year, to gain permanent possession of the coveted trophy. Beginning their winning ways early in the fall, the Exes captured the football championship with four wins and two ties. The Heids were second with three wins, two ties, and one defeat, followed by the Aps with two wins, one tie, and three defeats, while the Independents did not have a victory but had one tie and three defeats. All games were played at the National Field and, despite the lack of equipment, were highlighted by fast, rough action. With the advent of the basketball season, four freshmen teams, the Dragons, Eagles, Hot Rods, and 51-ers, formed a separate freshman league. The Exes captured all their games to snare the championship, as did the Eagles, to lead the Freshman league. These two teams then played for the championship, and the Exes were triumphant, 37-26. The Independents were second, followed by the Heids and Aps, while in the Freshman league, the Hot Rods were second, the 51'ers third, and the Dragons last. Storck, Wolf, and Ball were the leading scorers in society competition, while Malmisur, Bulthen, Wall, and Riley led the freshmen. Despite a general lack of interest, and a number of forfeitures, the rampaging Exes could not be stopped, and added the volleyball title to their achievements, dethroning the Heids as champions. Thirty-two men participated in the invitational foul-shooting contest. Four men, Haines, Robey, Eckert, and Parmelee gained the semi-finals. Bill Eckert emerged the winner, defeating Parmelee in fifty throws, 45-44. Eckert tossed in 176 baskets out of 200 attempts. At the beginning of the softball season, the Exes had amassed a total of 450 points; the Heids, 330; Aps, 230. Behind Koloze's smooth pitching, the Exes annexed another championship and completed a year of intramural games without suffering one defeat. The Hoke-Miller trophy was then permanently awarded to the Excelsior Literary Society for winning the cup three years in succession.

QUEEN CELESTE ROSENTHAL
ATTENDANT RUTH WITHROW

The sun shone brightly across the green carpet of Armstrong Field as the court of Senior women filed in to the accompaniment of the College orchestra. Miss Lettie Rosenthal attended by Miss Ruth Withrow received the crown and took her place upon the throne of the Queen of May. "The Ugly Duckling" was presented for the entertainment of the Queen and the freshman women participated in the May Pole Dance. In the evening, the Queen was presented at a dance sponsored by the Student Council and held at the Masonic Temple Ball Room.

Homecoming

The campus was arrayed in bright colors and covered with novel decoration and miles of crepe paper in providing of a welcome for the returning of the college alumni. The women worked hard and late in preparation of the decoration of their dormitories, each knowing their ideas would bring their dorm the coveted trophy. Immediately before game time, the Student Prince Band led a parade down Perry and Washington Streets, augmented by the lumbering floats constructed by the three men's literary societies and Freshman House. Before the opening play of the contest with the Otterbein squad, Princess Barbara Bender was presented to the students and alumni along with her attendants Mattie Mae Klingaman and Emily Winkler. The princess then presented a Homecoming mum and a kiss to the captains of the rival teams. To the president of Williard Hall and to the Excelsior Literary Society, she awarded trophies in reward for the dormitory decorations and float adjudged most worthy. The day closed with the traditional Homecoming Dance at the Masonic Temple to which came both students and alumni of the college.

The Publishers of The 1949 Aurora

wish to express the deepest gratitude to all those persons who rendered assistance in the production of this yearbook. To the staff photographers who receive so little glory for their hundreds of hours spent in the taking and processing of the photographs which make up the bulk of this Aurora, we give praise and special thanks for their faithfulness and fine quality work. To the editorial staff members who spent many weary hours in mounting and trimming photographs and in accomplishing the smaller tasks which are even greater headaches, we give congratulations on the efficiency and accuracy of their operations. To the advertisement seekers, the business staff, we extend the appreciation of their help in financing their Aurora. To the advisors, Professor Merle M. Burke and Miss Kathryn Kalbfleisch, we send thanks for their services in administering the Aurora and for the many tedious meetings they attended with respect to the current problems of the Aurora. Finally, to the readers of this 1949 Aurora we give this yearbook. We sincerely hope you find our year's work to your taste and that you will be proud to keep your copy as a memorial to your year at Heidelberg.

Career Calling YOU

Here's a good job for girls with college training.

It's the job of Service Representative for the telephone company.

This career offers you a chance to meet the public and to use your own judgment and initiative. Pay is good and increases come rapidly.

You will be thoroughly trained for this challenging work. You will have every opportunity to qualify for higher-paid positions as you gain skill and experience.

If you are friendly, alert, well-poised and tactful, here is a career that calls for YOU.
